The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-12, 19-20 and 33-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kryzsik (6,534,074) in view of Shimizu (6,308,898) alone or if necessary in view of Lanzendorfer for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that examiner has not established a prima facie case of obviousness. Applicant argues that Kryzsik does not provide for a composition for direct application to the skin. This argument has been considered but is not persuasive because the claims are directed to a composition and not to its use. Further the Kryzsik composition is directly applied to the skin on a "body facing material". This would provide a gentler application process than one where the solution is rubbed onto the skin. No unobvious or unexpected difference is seen between the application processes in the claimed composition. Applicant argues that the one of ordinary skill in the art would not combine Kryzsik with Shimizu because Kryzsik teaches away from using liquids in his composition. This argument has been considered but is not persuasive. In examples 80 and 81 the squalene and vitamin E are applied in the form an ointment. One of ordinary skill in the art would easily recognize the application of the squalene and vitamin E of Shimizu in the skin treatment of Kryzsis because these ingredients can be formulated into a solid. If one of ordinary skill in the art wanted to treat a skin rash or dermatoses in Kryzsis, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include vitamin E and squalene in the formulation, as suggested by Shimizu.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
